WEEK'S NEWS IN REVIEW

Saga of Northland, Cuba Bomarc "Costly Target"

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Two rescued in north drama
Tensions mount over Cuba
Bomarc said costly target

World attention was drawn to Canada's north this week as the dramatic story of the survival of a man and a woman, missing 50 days with little food following a plane crash, was unfolded following their rescue.

A private plane, carrying Ralph Flores, 42, an electrician from San Bruno, Calif., and Miss Klaben, 21, an office worker from Brooklyn, N.Y., crashed into the trees on a mountainside in northern British Columbia Feb. 4.

An extensive search was carried out, then abandoned as hopeless.

But Flores and Miss Klaben survived the crash, their injuries, temperatures as low as 40 below zero and 41 days without food and water after they'd eaten two tins of fruit, two tins of sardines and two tubes of toothpaste.

Flores erected makeshift protection at the crash scene, waited for weeks to be found, then finally moved to two other campsites in more exposed areas. He tramped an SOS in the snow at one and a bush pilot spotted it, then saw the missing pair.

They were plucked from the 4,000-foot level of the mountainside Monday and flown to hospital in Whitehorse where they told their story of hardship, loneliness and cold.

By Friday, Miss Klaben had left Whitehorse Hospital and flown to Fairbanks, Alaska, where she rested in hospital awaiting decision on when frost-bitten toes of her right foot might be amputated.

Flores was joined in Whitehorse by his wife who said she'd stay until he was able to leave hospital.

CUBA TENSION RISES

Two shooting incidents, two protest notes from Moscow and a statement by Cuban Premier Castro increased tensions over the Cuban situation.

Cuban exile "commandos" sneaked into a Cuban harbor Tuesday night and fired on a Russian freighter, causing extensive damage.

The incident came almost at the time Moscow released a note to the U.S. protesting a similar shelling March 18.

On Thursday, Castro threatened to arm Cuba with long-range bombers to counter such raids. Thursday night, two jet fighters, identified as MIGs, fired on a U.S. cargo ship—without hitting it—in international waters off Cuba's north coast. The Cubans government said later the jets "probably fired in error."

On Friday, Moscow sent another protest note to the U.S., this over the Tuesday night shelling.

The U.S. government denied blame in the freighter shelling and condemned the forays as irresponsible.

BOMARC A TARGET
Censored testimony by U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara, released Friday, quotes McNamara as telling a congressional committee that one of the uses of Bomarc anti-aircraft weapons was to draw enemy ballistic missile fire in event of war but that the Bomarc has turned out to be an expensive target for this purpose.

McNamara said he would remove the Bomarc setup except for the fact that the annual maintenance costs are no more than $20,000,000 and "I think we are getting our money's worth."

The U.S. has eight Bomarc bases and Canada has two—at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que.

CAMPAIN CONTINUES

The nuclear debate continued in the campaign for Canada's April 8 balloting, but other matters got more attention.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told a Victoria meeting Monday of his intention to make pay increases for the armed forces and civil servants in postal, customs and custodial services retroactive to last Oct. 1.

Liberal Leader Pearson said in Edmonton he will fly to London right after the April 8 election if he becomes prime minister then, for discussions with Prime Minister Macmillan, then will seek a meeting with President Kennedy.

DIRECT LINK BOUGHT

In Geneva, where nuclear test ban negotiations have been deadlocked for some time, the U.S. pressed Friday for establishment of a direct permanent communications link between the leaders of the U.S. and the Soviet Union to avoid the risk of war by accident or miscalculation. U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stille said the U.S. government is prepared to act quickly in setting up a permanent line which could be used both for teletype and voice communications.

REMOVAL OF TOLLS FROM OKANAGAN LAKE BRIDGE SUNDAY MIDNIGHT MARKS ANOTHER STEP IN ITS EIGHT YEAR HISTORY

Last toll charge will be paid Sunday on the bridge that had been described as impossible to build. The Okanagan Lake Bridge's history had its beginning officially on Nov. 17, 1955, when word was received from Premier W. A. C. Bennett that the first tenders had been called for its construction. A Coast newspaper predicted traffic would begin travelling on the Okanagan Lake bridge in the fall of 1957. The initial stage of construction of the bridge (left) was carried on by men driving piles into the lake bottom, 400 feet below the surface. A bridge steering committee was formed by city council and worked until the completion of the bridge in July, 1958. The bridge's location was unknown until outlined in detail by the author of a letter to the editor in the March 26, 1958 issue of the Courier. His name was "Page Buff Patullo". The late works minister, E. C. Carson, took "undoubtedly about a bridge over Lake Okanagan in 1948. Was it possible that either of these individuals, even in their wildest dreams, imagined a bridge across the lake in 20 or 15 years? Not only that, but this bridge would be a $7.5 million project, with a span of 4,855 feet over the water and an overall length of 2 1/2 miles, a magnificent two-lane structure, complete with lifting span and no tolls. Work was a week behind schedule in late 1956 when extensive ice covered the lake. Construction was continued and two weeks before the opening, the last steel section was floated into position and secured. Less than three years after Premier Bennett's announcement the bridge was opened. The duty was performed by Princess Margaret, who, on July 19, 1958 at exactly 12:27 p.m., cut the ribbon and officially declared the bridge open. Princess Margaret is shown (above center) with Premier Bennett. The weather was sunny as an estimated 8,000 spectators, including 500 invited guests from all over B.C. and the U.S.A., viewed the ceremony. The picture at right shows a section of the 2100 feet of cement reinforced pontoons. Cement for the first pontoon was poured May 16, 1957.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

With BETHEL STEELE

Thursday night's Vancouver Symphony concert could be called our second gala experience this year. The King and I was the first. The theatre opening with Teresa Stratas was a thing apart.

The symphony under Irwin Hoffman has visited us before but never under such auspicious circumstances. The group has never played as well for us and the organization of the Women's University Club for the day's concerts was something to be remembered.

Nearly 1,600 school children were poured in and out for the two afternoon performances without a hitch or the loss of any precious time.

Those of us fortunate enough to be present for the elementary session will not forget the enraptured faces of the children or their engrossed listening to Aron Copland's "Billy the Kid". Mr. Hoffman's running commentary was humorous and revealing of the meaning of the music. He has the art of handling young people. There was no boredom here. I am sure David Reed will never forget his birthday, ever. He shared the podium with Mr. Hoffman for O Canada.

What a pity the brass and percussion obliterated the strings in the afternoon playing. The pizzicato ostinato Scherzo movement of the Tchaikovsky 4th Symphony was the lovely exception as the choirs in this music hardly ever overlap.

The evening performance was a different story. The theatre was filled to capacity with an enthusiastic adult audience. I wonder if Kelowna realizes what a wonderful audience it can be when it really likes what it sees and hears.

I am sure the symphony was inspired by its audience because the playing was dynamic and carried the listeners into flights of fancy possible only when the true meaning of the music is revealed.

The Saint-Saens Symphony No. 2, in A minor had a polished sheen which enabled the music to stay within the stylized classicism to which it belongs. Its melodies and rhythms sang and danced as only Saint-Saens could make them. He was a master of form and this little symphony was a miniature of loveliness, as the Vancouver musicians played it.

For most listeners Wagner is an enigma. His music goes right to the depths of the emotions of which most Anglo Saxons care to show very little.

The Overture to Tannhauser is, as Mr. Hoffman explained, the receptacle for all the themes in the opera. One does not have to worry about plot or meaning while listening to this music. It just pours over one, an orgy of sound. The strings in this performance were like satin. The brass was never too intrusive. It was magnificent Wagner.

The Vancouver Symphony's performance of the Beethoven 5th was a wonderful experience. Its use as the victory theme in World War II turned record listeners away from it. It had become hackneyed and the last three movements all but forgotten.

The C minor symphony is Beethoven at his greatest. The Andante and the Finale are mighty documents to the recognition of the man's sublimation to and final triumph over fate. The orchestra allowed this glorious music to go directly to the heart without any extraneous diffusions of the melodic and rhythmic line and pulse. The tempo set in the finale was exact in its relentless drive. No other composer has written such a musical expression of triumph.

The Women's University Club are deserving of all our grateful thanks for its sponsorship of the 1963 tour as supported by the Canada Council.

$42,000 Sewage Cost Westbank Homeowners Told

WESTBANK — Acquisition, maintenance and operating costs of a sewage disposal system in the Westbank downtown area would be approximately $42,000, homeowners were told at a special meeting Wednesday, of the Westbank Waterworks District.

Engineer Brian Harvey told the meeting the proposed system would replace the existing septic tank services at a cost of $42,000, to be paid for by means of taxes, tolls and connection fees.

Kelowna persons attending the meeting were Dr. David Clarke, in chief of the South Okanagan health unit and Fred Aleck, sanitation, South Okanagan health unit. Dr. Clarke stressed the need for such a sewage system and alternatives should such a plan be rejected.

Mr. Aleck told the meeting the use of septic tanks is causing "considerable concern which may be overcome by adopting the proposed plans."

Broken down, the costs of such a system are as follows: Costs: collections $26,500; local loan, $2,950; District operating costs, $2,000; five percent debentures, provincial loan $32,000. Annual operating costs: CHMC interest $370; provincial loan, $2,950; District operating costs, $2,000.

Repayment: Taxes and tolls: houses and small lot $3.50 per month and annual taxes, $15. Assuming there is to be 43 users in the area, these would each pay $30 connection fees with graduated costs to packing houses, garages, stores, restaurants and medical clinics. A second meeting will be held in two weeks to vote on the proposed plan.

Socred Nominee Knows Ottawa

Editor's Note: This is another in the series of stories about candidates now running in the April 8 federal election.

It's rather difficult to write a non-political story about a man who has spent 18 of the past 22 years in parliament, but this series is intended to tell who the candidate is, and that is part of him.

Frederick Davis (Jack) Shaw, the Social Credit candidate for Okanagan Boundary, now lives in Penticton, but he is no stranger to Ottawa. He represented Red Deer, Alberta from 1949 to 1957 in the House of Commons.

He is commonly known as "Jack" although that is not his name. "It seems I had an aunt who thought I should be called Jack and it stuck from the time I was a day old," he said.

"JACK" SHAW

Born in Cardston, Alberta in 1909, Mr. Shaw was one of nine children. His father was a rancher who had settled in Cardston, almost on the U.S. put, I felt."

After Year Of Quiet Retirement Mr. Shaw Returns To Politics

Mr. Shaw now draws the maximum pension of $3,000 a year as a result of his service to Canada. If he is elected on April 8 this pension will automatically stop, and the seasonal indemnity due to members begins. If he leaves the house again, the pension automatically is reinstated and will continue as long as he lives.

He has contributed the maximum amount and the pension can neither be increased or reduced, under the present laws. In September 1959, following nearly a full year of gardening and travelling in the Okanagan, he became full time organizer for the B.C. Social Credit League. In 1960 he was elected president of the provincial federal council and was made responsible for organization in the federal ridings.

He started a four-year term as vice-president of the Social Credit Association of Canada in 1961. "Robert Thompson and I have been close associates for over 25 years," he said. "We both stood for nomination in Red Deer in 1940 and when I won the nomination, he became my official agent."

"In 1960 I was one of those who worked very hard to convince him to let his name stand for the leadership of our party. I feel he is one of the outstanding leaders of our time," he said.

border, in 1884. His mother had come to Alberta as the first school teacher south of Lethbridge in 1899 prior to her marriage.

From deep Canadian roots, Mr. Shaw is related to both Tupper and Tilley, two of the fathers of Confederation on his father's side. His mother's people were among the original settlers at Strathroy, Ont.

Mr. Shaw took both his public and high school education in Cardston and then went on to graduate from the Calgary Normal school in 1929.

TAUGHT SCHOOL

From 1929 until 1940 he taught school at Olds, Alberta. On January 15, 1940 he was rejected from military service but three of his brothers served in the army during the war.

In 1933 Mr. Shaw first became interested in Social Credit and was closely associated with both Mr. Aberhart and Mr. Manning along with the original organizers of the party.

He was first elected to parliament in 1940 and re-elected in 1945, 1949, 1953, 1957. He suffered his first defeat in 1958.

During 21 sessions he attended, he served on practically every committee, including many standing and select committees.

He was a member of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association tour of South East Asia in 1957 and participated in the New Delhi conference that year.

Following the 1958 election he moved to the Okanagan.

"I had been around a good deal of the country, and had decided if I ever retired it would be to the Okanagan," he said. "I always meant to settle in Penticton."

"We figured it out one time, and during the first 15 years I was a member, I spent a total of nine years at Ottawa. It was time to settle down and stay Cardston, almost on the U.S. put, I felt."

Canada Engineering Prexy Outlines Aims At Meeting

Mr. Shaw's life has not been without tragedy.

In March of 1953 he married the former Eva Hiltten and they had four children, Doug, Don, now 28 and Eric Davis Jr., 24, both at Red Deer and Patricia, who is now nine.

In 1956, Doug, who was then a member of the RCMP, was drowned, and a few months later Mrs. Shaw also died. "That was a bad year," he said, today, "but that little girl grows more like her mother every day. She has her mother's musical ability and is already a valued member of the junior choir in the Anglican Church."

Mr. Shaw re-married in 1958 to the former Vera Smythe of Ottawa.

Some 20 engineers and their wives attended from Penticton to Kamloops.

He said: "Forty years ago, the EIC drafted the Model Act. This led to the formation of the association of professional engineers. Because of further needs, the dominion council of professional engineers was formed. Then after some years, all engineers started a movement for greater unity."

"The report of the engineers confederation was published in September 1961. Representatives found it possible to compromise because of substantial differences of opinion. In reality, much progress had been made."

Mr. Lawton said "On June 9, 1962, representatives of the Canadian Council of Professional Engineers and EIC decided that the membership would go to vote on the proposal."

Three Sorts Of "Bones" Go To Make Up Church

Look Magazine in its issue of Nov. 20, 1962, carried an article by senior editor Orono Zimmerman entitled: "Help Wanted: Ministers, Priests and Rabbis." The writer claims, among other things, that "a crucial, talent shortage plagues our churches; seminary enrollment lags while congregations swell; the value of the religious life is being challenged."

Meanwhile, in a denominational paper a minister made the observation that his denomination "is dying in many small towns and rural areas for lack of ministers and it will continue to die unless laymen become more vitally involved in the work of the church."

The church is not the personal hobby of a minister; nor is it merely a social club for the children and ladies. It is the workshop where every man should carry out his God given responsibilities of spiritual leadership.

The body is made up largely of bones—about 200 of them classified according to shape. Your church is also made up of bones, classified according to use. There are three kinds. First, WISHBONES. You know this kind. They wish for greater things in the church. They wish for success in the Sunday School. They wish for larger attendances. Wishbones? They're lazy. They're languid. They're listless. The only things they deny themselves of are work and effort to make their wishes come true. Rocking-chair Christians! Drawing-room Christians!

Then there are the JAWBONES. Nothing slow or listless about this kind. They work up and down at great speed. They criticize. They gossip. They pick flaws. They tell how it should be done. In their wake follows dissension, discouragement and disease. Really, it takes a Samson to handle this class and turn them to some good use!

But the third class is the one that I like to think of. They are the BACKBONES. There is work to be done; the Backbones do it. There is a healthy target to raise; the Backbones raise it. There are meetings to attend; the backbones are there. O Backbones! If I were a poet I'd write about you! If I were a singer, I'd chant your praises! If I were an artist, I'd paint your lovely likeness! But being only ordinary humans, I and other ministers can only thank God for you.

You cannot render service to any other organization that will bring as much benefit to you, your family and your community, as will your service to the church. Let the church fail through a lack of effort on your part, and ultimately we will see civilization itself cease.—J. M. Schroeder, Minister, Alliance Church.

Let's Make It Good

What! No Tolls?

Monday's toll-lifting ceremony at the west end of Okanagan Lake bridge will mean a fillip to the general business area. Tolls have played some restrictive part in the intercourse between the people of the west side of the lake and those of the east side. With the removal of the tolls access will be free and undoubtedly cross-lake traffic will increase.

As a result, both sides will benefit, with the greatest benefit probably accruing to the merchants and businessmen of this city.

We suggest, then, that attendance at the ceremony and the subsequent luncheon at the Aquatic is only a way—in fact, the only way—of showing this area's appreciation of the toll removal.

Let's take an hour off on Monday morning and attend the ceremony and, as we must, let's eat at the Aquatic meeting. Surely, the removal of the tolls is an important enough incident to merit a good crowd. Let's show our appreciation by attending.

Gauche

Scene: Intermission at Vancouver Symphony concert. "Will you please tell these people through the paper that you never applaud at the end of each movement of a symphony. You wait to the end."

"I wondered about this, but I did not know and so I did not clap."

"A symphony generally has four movements and you never applaud until the end of the symphony. We may be geographically in the bush, but surely we are not THAT far!"

"Well, you must remember that a very considerable part of this audience has never been exposed to a symphony before and, while perhaps they do not know their etiquette, they are trying to show their appreciation."

"But they should know; they should be told. These musicians will think they are right in the sticks. Tell them in the paper."

So now the request is complied with. But the Thursday audience learned quickly. In the second half of the program, there was little and sometimes no applause at the end of the movements.

And certainly the audience demonstrated its appreciation at the end of the concert. Kelowna audiences are said to be cold. They do not cheer parades and sit on their hands at concerts and plays. But Thursday they applauded and stomped and actually shouted!

We're learning!

EDITORIAL BRIEF

It is to be hoped that a good many Kelowna pianists attended the symphony concert Thursday night and that they noted how the orchestra played O Canada. It ceased to be the normal dirge and assumed—almost—the stature of a potential national anthem.

THE BIRDS OF SPRING

LOOKING BACK with Old Stager

Charley's Aunt Paid A Visit To Kelowna In April 1913

In Kelowna's early days, before the "talkies," and the era of "spectaculars," the residents were regaled with theatrical performances, staged at the Opera House, sometimes by touring companies like the popular Allen Players. (The male members of the visiting company usually challenging the local baseball team to a friendly game during their visit.)

More often, though, the entertainment was provided by local talent, with well known plays presented by the Kelowna Musical and Dramatic Society, the "Little Theatre" of those days.

The musical operas of the Gilbert and Sullivan type were popular with the public, and the performers, the latter usually getting as much fun out of the rehearsals and presentation as the audience did from the performance itself.

In the April 3 issue of the Courier in the year 1913 there is an account of the production of the farcical comedy "Charley's Aunt" on the previous Saturday night before a capacity crowd.

For those few who do not know the play, the story centres around a dinner arranged by two undergraduates for two young lady friends, at which a wealthy widowed aunt from Spain is to be chaperone. She is unable to come, and the young men prevail upon an undergraduate friend to impersonate her. Two would-be suitors of Charley's aunt start to make proposals to the fake "aunt," and the whole thing is further complicated by the unexpected arrival of the real aunt! A. L. Soames, the director (and also a performer) was congratulated on "the finest show staged under the auspices of the Kelowna Musical and Dramatic Society. The scenic effects came in for particular praise, and the report went so far as to say that "it was doubtful if the better could be seen in a first class theatre in London or New York!"

Members of the cast given particular credit were A. L. Soames as "Jack Chesney," R. C. Reed as the impersonator of "Charley's Aunt," Grant Ferrier and L. E. Taylor as rival suitors for the hand of "Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez," (Charley's Aunt), G. C. Benmore, in the part of "Brassett," the college scout, "Interpreted to the life the cynical serviteur young sour in the service of young and irresponsible college graduates," the report states.

Following was the cast for play "Charley's Aunt":

Sir Frances Chesney, (retired colonel of the Punjab Light Infantry), Grant Ferrier; Jack Chesney, his son, A. L. Soames; Lord Fancourt Babberly, undergraduate, R. C. Reed; Charlie Wyckham, undergraduate, P. E. Corby; Stephen Spettigue, solicitor, L. E. Taylor; Brassett, college scout, G. C. Benmore; Kitty Verdun, ward of Spettigue, Miss G. Binger; Amy Spettigue, his niece, Miss Hill; Ella Delahay, niece of Donna Lucia, Mrs. P. E. Corby; Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez, the true aunt, Mrs. L. E. Taylor.

Director, A. L. Soames; pianist, J. Smith; scenery by G. E. McKie, scenic artist. Late of London and Liverpool. (Furniture by courtesy of the Kelowna Furniture Co. Ltd.)

The late George C. Benmore, who played the part of "Brassett," was associated with amateur theatricals in the valley for almost half a century, and passed away as recently as March 1, 1960, at the age of 87. In company with others who were interested in the theatre, he took part in many Gilbert and Sullivan operas, "HMS Pinafore," in 1906 being probably the first, followed by the "Pirates of Penzance," "Mikado," and in the twenties, "The Gondoliers," "Patience," "Yeomen of the Guard" and others.

PLAYERS CLUB

In 1924 he moved to Summerland for five years and there he formed the Summerland Players Club, which, with a choral group, still operates. Mr. Benmore was made a life member in Kelowna's Little Theatre in 1949. He wrote an article for the 1954 report of the Okanagan Historical Society, telling the story of "Kelowna Amusements in the Early Days" and in connection with the fine work on the scenery by the artist, Edgar McKie, tells of an amusing incident when the opera "Mikado" was produced in Vernon. (These operas and plays usually went on a tour of the valley towns.) The manager of a touring professional company saw the performance, and was amazed at it. On being told that it was the work of a local fruit grower, he became annoyed. "Don't give me that stuff," he barked. "That's no farmer's work, that man could make a fortune in New York." He was mollified, says Benmore, when told that the painter, a former professional, was growing fruit in East Kelowna, for health's sake.

Speaking of touring professionals, a Kelowna lady recently had a letter from a Ray Collins, who told her that he appeared in a Shakespearean play here in 1909, for one night. The point of interest is that Ray Collins is now portraying the part of "Polonius" in "Hamlet" in the Perry Mason TV show.

Next week: "The Local and Personal Column."

TODAY IN HISTORY

March 30, 1903

An American army of 4,000 men made the last attempt of the War of 1812 to invade Canada 140 years ago today — in 1814 — but failed. The Americans, led by Gen. Wilkinson, were repulsed by British troops at the town of Lacolle, Que. Today a monument commemorating the battle stands near Lacolle bridge. Lacolle stands on important highways leading to the United States and is one of the busiest ports of entry to Canada.

1842 — Ether was used for the first time as an anesthetic.

1907 — The United States bought Alaska from Russia for $7,200,000.

SET BOUNDARY

In medieval England, the salt cellar was a social boundary at the dinner table. Top guests sat above and less important ones below it.

"Elephant Parade" Keeps SAC In Air

GOOSE BAY, Labrador (CP) — An "elephant parade" of squealing tankers, planes and lumbering convoys is keeping the snow-covered runways and take-off at precise intervals delivering fuel to a U.S. Strategic Air Command nuclear fleet somewhere overhead and out of sight.

A flight of RAF supersonic Vulcans is away in a powder of snow so fast they don't interrupt the tanker schedule.

And in between, the busy control tower clears a few search and rescue and commercial craft of tolerant landlubber Canada.

It's a normal day at this big sub-Arctic base, clearing 5,000 planes a month on the 54-mile runways and 100-mile taxiways. It's a role scarcely less important than in wartime. It will remain that way as long as there's a call for conventional, manned aircraft for defence.

After that—and one guess is that it's got at least 10 years to go—it could conceivably be reduced to handling light traffic of adventuresome tourists and sportsmen seeking fish and game or just beautiful scenery in some of Canada's wildest and most rugged country.

RCAP RUNS BASE
"Right now our main job is to keep house for the American SAC force so that it can get to its job fast," says brisk, energetic Group Capt. Eric Kenny, 47, of Vancouver.

And, as in other parts of the continent, the U.S. tenant dominates the area in men and war-making material with an investment of $180,000,000. The RCAP can launch nothing more offensive than a pair of search-and-rescue planes, one of them an all but obsolete Dakota.

However, Canada has the final say in all movement and control at the big base, and the cool and competent voices of RCAP men, under Soda, Mr. Russ Hammond of Montreal, marshal and launch the big USAF tankers as they head for rendezvous with nuclear-armed B-57s, high in the northern skies and presumably just outside Canadian air space.

The Canadians, of course, speak almost the same language the same way and observe the same procedures in handling warplanes. So the well-heeled tenant has little to complain about.

"Actually our relations are close and cordial," says Group Capt. Kenny. But everybody is careful to make sure national feelings are not disturbed. For instance, a base news sheet on the American side welcomes the invitation from the Canadians to take part in their annual winter carnival but it carries a firm reminder from the American commander that his troops are not to gale-crash messes and that all actions are to be governed by RCAP rules.

'YOU-ALL' SIDE

The Americans draw their manpower — apparently by a studied policy that may sound perverse but has practical application for possible Arctic war experience—from the southern states and the big American compound is known as the "you-all" side of the base. Col. Sherman Martin, the American commander, is a Texan. Two of his aides are wartime grads of the RCAP.

An impressive cover of fighters continuously buzzes around the base ready to protect the delicate tanker mid-air refueling operations, and the Americans are also heavy on the ground with defensive equipment.

But the Americans are strictly tenants and with a revocable lease, unlike the 99-year commitment they enjoy in other parts of Newfoundland where they exert exclusive control.

Canada supplies most of the civilians for a wide range of jobs from maintenance and clerical to supply and technical. A big winter task is plowing the long runways and 15 miles of taxiways. For despite its open-weather record, Goose Bay—roughly on the same parallel as Edmonton—gets a heavy snowfall.

The Canadian work force includes a fairly sizeable band of Eskimos from the neighboring off-limit settlement of Happy Valley, and a sprinkling of Indians.

MONEY FOR CIVILIANS

There are 4,000 civilians in the area and 90 per cent of the adults depend on the base for a livelihood. Many originally depended on trawlers and some still lend color to the community with their traditional costume, moustaches and a few behind the ears of black and white Husky-type dogs.

When Group Capt. Kenny made a wartime ferry stop at the base it took him 12 hours "with a tail wind" to cross the Atlantic in a plane he was delivering to an RCAP advance base. The other day he "misalled" to England in less than four hours in an RAF Vulcan bomber.

The base is still sometimes used by the U.S. military forces as part of the staging route to units in Europe and on United Nations duty in the Middle East and The Congo. It is also used as a base for training exercises, including winter parachute drops by infantry regiments.

It's a far cry, however, from the wartime operations when it handled RCAP bomber and fighter deliveries in 100-plane batches.

On one recent day, in fact, the only Canadian activity was a touch-and-go exercise of a search-and-rescue Albatross from Greenwood, N.S., that stampeded a herd of 300 caribou as it skimmed the spectacular Natashquan gorge.

A Canadian ground party stumbled on the area almost accidentally, the same day as an air party headed by Elliot Roosevelt spotted it from a plane.

The Canadians had given up after finding bog and musk in the nearby North West River settlement. They went fishing, landed at the foot of the Goose Bay escarpment and realized immediately it was a giant sand dune—600 feet deep—that would provide natural drainage. At about the same moment the Roosevelt party was overheard arriving at the same conclusion.

The base was ready in 1942 about the time the present commanding officer was seeing his first action in the war as a pilot. It lies on a peninsula between the great sweep of the Hamilton River and Goose Bay itself, part of a long inlet to the sea. Winter temperatures range from zero to 10 below and the base is far enough inland to escape the bitter damp and bad flying conditions of the coast.

ELECTION REVIEW

NDP May Gain Ground In B.C.

By FARMER TISSINGTON, OTTAWA (Special) — The nuclear arms debate is a major election issue in Canada's most western province. Next to Quebec, British Columbia is most likely to be influenced by party attitudes on Canada's acquisition of nuclear weapons.

For this reason, and others, B.C. is the stronghold of the New Democrats, the only party to come out firmly against Canada joining the nuclear nations.

The NDP came up with 10 winners last June and most people expect the 10 will be returned, perhaps with one to three additions. They led in the popular vote with 211,997, while the Liberals and Conservatives almost tied, the Liberals getting 187,423 and the Conservatives 187,209. Despite a Social Credit provincial government, Social Credit candidates could amass only 97,372 votes last June. In terms of seats, the Conservatives won six, the Liberals four and Social Credit two.

Erhart Regier, the winning NDP candidate who resigned his seat to make room for party leader T. C. Douglas, is trying in a neighboring riding of Fraser Valley, won last year by Social Credit A. B. Patterson.

Another riding of special interest is Kamloops where Dave Fulton resigned to take over the provincial leadership. The Conservatives are running a 68-year-old Dr. Charles Willoughby against Liberal Earl Watt who came in second, 6,500 votes behind Fulton last June.

NDP leader Douglas is considered safe in Burnaby-Coquitlam, despite the campaign of Liberal Ron Kent, one of the party's leaders in some Liberals have been having second thoughts about the advisability of sending one of their top men into an almost hopeless fight, especially as it ties him down too much to be of value in the over-all campaign.

WHAT TO WATCH

The two Okanagan seats, Boundary and Revelstoke, have elected Conservatives. David Fugh and Stuart Fleming since 1958, but their margins have not been massive. Any trend to the NDP or the Liberals might be reflected here.

In Victoria, where there has been some inner-party strife among the Conservatives, the 1962 winner A. D. McPhillips has retired and has just been appointed to the Tariff Board. Liberal D. W. Grier, who ran second by 2,900 votes in Esquimalt-Saanich last June, is trying again in the Victoria riding.

THE CONSENSUS

Opinion of a group of Ottawa political observers on the possible outcome of April 8, with last June's seats in brackets: New Democrats 11 (10), Liberals 6 (4), Conservatives 4 (6), Social Credit 1 (2).

THE NATION

Bringing the Conservatives hold their Yukon seat and the Liberals the Northwest Territories, the overall consensus of the party standings in this five part look at the coming election is: Liberals 124 (109), Conservatives 83 (116), Social Credit 23 (30), New Democrats 10 (10).

Kelowna - Kamloops Couple United at Pretty Ceremony

The Mount Paul United Church, in Kamloops, was beautifully decorated with white gladioli and pink carnations on March 24 for the pretty evening wedding of Helen Epp, R.N., and William Rodney Rodgers. The Reverend P. N. Royster officiated and Miss Marilyn Kay as soloist sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register accompanied by the organist Miss Kathy Hilde.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. K. Epp of Kelowna and the parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rodgers of Kamloops.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional white gown of silk tulle with a fitted princess-line bodice with portrait neckline and long sleeves. Appliques of Chantilly lace adorned the neckline and accented the lowered waistline where a bouffant bow lent back interest to the full sweeping skirt.

A lace-edged chapel veil of silk illusion mated from a dainty tulle of seed pearls and iridescent crystal and to complete her lovely ensemble the bride carried a cascade bouquet of deep red Delight roses with streamers tied with rosebuds.

Miss Irene Epp of Prince George was maid of honor and the Misses Ruth and Carol Epp of Kelowna were bridesmaids. They were identical ballerina gowns of turquoise peau de soie. Their headpieces were single roses fashioned of the same peau de soie as their gowns and net entwined and they carried turquoise-tinted carnations in colonial bouquets.

Robert Rodgers was his brother's best man. Ushers were Ken Rodgers, also a brother of the groom, and Herb Brinkhurst of Galiano. Best man was Robert Rodgers.

A reception was held in the Village Hotel banquet room. The bride and groom were seated at a table with the bride's parents. The bride's father, Mr. I. K. Epp, was master of ceremonies. The bride's mother, Mrs. I. K. Epp, was mistress of ceremonies. The bride's father, Mr. I. K. Epp, was master of ceremonies. The bride's mother, Mrs. I. K. Epp, was mistress of ceremonies.

N. Rodgers of Canoe, grandmother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. J. Wiebe of Kelowna; Mr. and Mrs. M. Fulton of Sicamous, Mr. and Mrs. R. Barrow of Burnaby, Mr. and Mrs. R. ANN LANDERS

Be Kinder To Grampa

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's father is nearly 70. We moved into his rather large home three years ago when my mother-in-law died.

Several months ago he suffered a stroke. His recovery has been very good and he now has the use of all his faculties. The only thing which is troublesome is that his right side is partially paralyzed and it is difficult for him to eat properly. He spills food on the tablecloth, on himself, and sometimes on the floor.

Our children are 7, 9, and 10 and we are trying to teach them good table manners. When they see their grandfather slopping all over, it's a problem to make them toe the mark.

I have suggested that we feed Grandpa in his room. My husband won't hear of it. Mealtime should be a pleasant family affair and it can't be pleasant with the old man at the table. I hope you will agree with me because my husband and I have been arguing about it for weeks and I need help.—BATTLE FATIGUE.

Dear Battle: Grandpa should not be isolated from the family. It would be cruel to feed him in his room.

More important than a clean tablecloth and meticulous manners is compassion and understanding for people who are old and sick. Explain to your children why grandpa spills things. Encourage them to help him and to be kind and considerate.

This experience could be an important lesson for your children and help them to be better human beings.

Dear Ann Landers: Why is it that some people think just because you live next door to a family you know their every move and are perfectly willing to act as messenger boy, check-room attendant, or anything they want.

It happened again today. A woman banged on my neighbor's door for 10 minutes. It sounded like a herd of elephants. Then she came over and handed me a package. She didn't ask me, she told me to give the package to my neighbor.

VERNON VIEWPOINTS

Contrary to popular belief (but only in some circles) the Vernon bureau, Daily Courier, move Friday had nothing whatsoever to do with Mayor Cousins.

While undoubtedly the mayor would like to see the bureau moved to Lumby, Armstrong, Falkland... or anywhere, we've just gone one block down the street, to bigger and more modern offices. The address: Mann Building, 3113 Bernard Avenue. Our telephone remains the same—Linden 2-7410.

We're in excellent company in our new place. We have a dentist across the hall, an optometrist next door and the Vernon Credit Bureau adjacent.

Election fever is hitting town already... and it's not the federal election we're talking about.

Mayor Cousins made some mighty fine enemies in town this week when he failed as the chief magistrate of Vernon to greet Prime Minister John Diefenbaker. It's still the main topic on coffee row and some of the mayor's strongest supporters in the 1961 municipal election are changing camps this year.

Some top men have been approached to run for office, including Ellwood Rice and former mayor Frank Becker. Neither man has committed himself... but one thing is certain, Vernon needs and wants a change.

Don't forget the four-party forum at the Legion hall Monday. It will be the only time in Vernon the electorate will have a chance to question any of the four candidates running in Okanagan-Revelstoke.

Last year you may remember, there were some pretty hot questions delivered from the floor... and a few were not answered too well.

City hall had the foresight this year to notify the senior baseball club in town of upcoming events in Polson Park. The Army takes over the park on set dates for rehearsals for the cadet show. Last year as you know, a giant hassle resulted when the army turned up one Sunday to practice and so did the baseball club for a scheduled game.

The army retreated when fans shouted their disapproval. City Hall was fighting made and demanded an apology from the club which they gave. The whole business could have been averted if written instruction had gone out instead of verbal.

By the way, Vernon is the only city in the league with the exception of Merritt without lights for night ball. The club is still looking for a ball park and want to move out of Polson Park as much as the city want them to.

Metro Plan Denied

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayors and trustees of Lower Mainland cities and municipalities have denied a statement by Municipal Affairs Minister Black that confidential talks have been going on toward formation of a metro government.

Mayor Bill Rathie of Vancouver said there have been no meetings or consultations with the municipalities either this year or last year.

Mayor Bill Angus of North Vancouver said it was "just another shot in the disgusting war of propaganda now being stepped up to condition municipal taxpayers into paying for another level of government."

Reeve Alex Forest of West Vancouver said Mr. Black seems to have plans for metro "yet hasn't consulted the municipalities."

Mr. Black told the left-latter Tuesday that negotiations with reeves and mayors have reached the point where initial moves toward metro are possible.

'Let Children Make Decisions' Expert Tells Area Teachers

LUMBY (Correspondent)—School principals and vice-principals from Lumby, Vernon and other Okanagan centres attended a conference in Oliver where they heard Dr. C. J. Brauner, of the B.C. college of education, speak on education problems.

Dr. Brauner said adults are not allowing children to learn how to make decisions because although children are allowed to make the small decision "we reserve the right to make the big ones ourselves."

Dr. Brauner, an American by birth, began his career by teaching school in the United States, then lectured at Stanford University, as well as universities in Peru, Sweden and Canada.

He said the American student who is trained for objective testing is confounded when confronted by an essay assignment such as Canadian students are accustomed to while the Canadian is equally confounded when he enters American universities and must learn their method of objective testing.

He said that in both cases the child should be subjected to two sides of instruction; that there should be a step by step analysis as to what program to be set; that it should be broader and that administrators should take up "what do we do about the making of decisions and the training of youngsters at being able to."

He said philosophers tended to place administrators in two categories; the conservative who believes that nothing new should ever be attempted and the liberal who agrees new should be implemented... but not now.

"DISTANT STAR"
As a philosopher, Dr. Brauner advocated that young people should be taught "navigate life by local landmarks rather than by a bright distant star."

He argued that social studies was too frequently a program tied down to a set of standards and even information limited to the era of about 1965. He stressed that "we must begin raising youngsters systematically to learn how to make the large decision; and that this training must begin in the public schools. Canadian

New Magistrate Named For Armstrong District

ARMSTRONG (Correspondent)—Armstrong city council heard a letter read from deputy provincial secretary and a copy of the order-in-council appointing Frank Evans as magistrate in and for the province of B.C. His duties will include those of judge in juvenile court sitting in Armstrong County of Yale, and of coronator for B.C.

In other council news: Council is considering taking part in a mutual aid plan being devised for defence of the province against fire. The decision results from a letter received from the fire marshal's office in Vancouver.

Clerk E. A. Green told council that water samples taken in February showed the same results as in previous months. Sanitary inspector W. G. Fyvie's report indicated 11 per cent of the 35 samples taken were positive.

Council received the 1963 budget of Armstrong-Spallumcheen Parks Board from chairman Mrs. Arthur F. Henley and secretary-treasurer Mrs. Robert M. Spragg.

Estimated expenditures are $6,500 with revenue expected at $725, leaving the balance of $5,775 to be raised by the two councils. The city's share is $3,000, an increase of $715 over 1962. The increase is partly due to installation of the sewer and repairs to the road shed.

ROAD REPAIRS
The board asked to have the road through the park repaired, as well as the tennis court which should have a coat of black top. However, council stated little could be done this year since they intend to wait a year before starting any repaving of city roads where sewer pipes have been laid.

Only one tender was received to purchase top soil from the city. Miles Whitbread's bid for 18 cubic yards at $1 per yard was accepted. No action was taken by council for disposal of the stock pile of top soil.

A letter from NOCA Dairy requested Armstrong council and chamber of commerce to support their objection to the importation of milk from the Fraser Valley and points in the area. Council refused to take any action. Ald. Gordon Gray, council's representative to the chamber said he would bring it to their attention.

Council referred to the city property committee for investigation a request from Mr. and Mrs. John Gargol who wish to redivide their three lots at the corner of Rosedale avenue and Colony street into two lots. The financial report of the recreation commission, presented by Ald. John Kneugh, showed a balance at the end of the year of $880.

Winter works for which approval will be requested, will include a fence and curbs on the Swanson property under an agreement signed with Mrs. D. Gray, also a new sidewalk on Okanagan street.

Council spent two-and-a-half hours on drafting the sewer rate bylaw with consulting engineer W. Allen of Stasely, Grinble and Robins Ltd.

Soccer Season Set To Open With Vernon-Kelowna Joust

VERNON (Staff)—The first game of the 1963 spring soccer season gets underway in the Okanagan April 7. Vernon plays in Kelowna and Peniticon at Kamloops.

The Vernon Royals enter the spring half of the fall-spring schedule with a six point lead over Kelowna. Last year Vernon played nine games, won eight and tied one. They scored 33 goals and lost 16 goals.

If Vernon should continue its winning streak, they will move into the season with an eight point lead. However coach Len Macfarlane said today the competition this year will be much tougher.

"We've heard wonderful reports—if you want to call them ponderal—of the Kelowna team. They're apparently hot this year. Peniticon has imported several players and are reported better. Kamloops though have no where to go but up, they never won a game last year."

Coach Macfarlane said the Vernon team will have "pretty much the same players as last year." He said top goal scorer in the league Kaare Lien is back from Europe where he competed as defending ski jumping champion for Canada.

BILL GILMOUR

Do you know his Liberal Platform?

HERE ARE SOME FACTS:

This man cares.

A Liberal government will put men to work and expand industry. Liberals have a plan:

- New special Department of Industry to expand industry by industry manufacturing in Canada.
- Promotion of industry where industry needed i.e. Okanagan Valley.
- Free grants and low interest loans to municipalities for construction of necessary public works, school, hospitals, etc.
- Vocational education and university grants and scholarships to train Canadians for new jobs. For Canada to prosper the Liberal party knows that 250,000 new jobs must be found each year for four years.
- A new National Development Corporation—to assist in financing such industry expansion and to help provide capital for new developments—Columbia power, mining and other resources beyond the scope of private industry.
- Trade expansion—better trade agreements with other countries—One Canadian in every five depends on exports for his job. Canada has been slipping.

BILL GILMOUR knows the Okanagan—he believes we can get industry HERE. He will work vigorously in a Liberal Government towards this goal.

Hawk Injuries Worry Pilous

DETROIT (CP)—A week ago but Pilous now is a mile west. Body Pilous of Chicago drew and injured players from some of the best hockey leagues observed when he was seen on the ice. He would not tell from now on. He meant they were ready to leave through the Stanley Cup.

The Hawks had gone into an end-of-season to begin, suffered first place and the league title to Toronto and secured into second place with late-game rushes to gain a tie and a win in the final two scheduled contests.

The week's events have borne Pilous out. Chicago looked after Detroit 5-4 and 5-3 in fairly convincing fashion Tuesday and Thursday nights for a two-game lead in the best-of-seven semi-final.

RUDY PILOUS

This is a pretty good cushion. Six of Chicago's 16 goals have been scored on power plays. Four Thursday night. This situation hasn't eased the Wings' frame of mind.

The Wings are not used to being hurt by power-play goals—the power play is usually one of their most helpful weapons. Over the season, Detroit scored 13 power-play goals against Chicago and the Hawks managed only seven in return.

It'll be a 2-1 series after Sunday night. Detroit coach Alvin Snider promised after the Thursday encounter when Wings were hit with 13 of 21 penalties called. These included a major to Alvin MacGregor and a misconduct to Norm Ullman for chewing out referee Al Slov.

Canucks Edge Bucks 4-2 Totems Dump Stamps 7-1

If anyone was looking for a shuffle of the Western Hockey League's Northern Division standings Friday, it didn't come.

Friday night Vancouver Canucks defeated Portland Buckaroos 4-2. Seattle Totems clobbered Calgary Stampede 7-1, and San Francisco Seals took Los Angeles Blades 5-2.

The victories by Seattle and Vancouver left them tied in the Northern Division lead. Calgary's loss put them in a third-place tie with Edmonton Flyers.

Tonight, Los Angeles plays at San Francisco, Edmonton at Calgary, and Vancouver at Spokane. Should Canucks win tonight, they go two points up on Seattle and the showdown would come Sunday in Seattle. A win for Canucks there would give them the Northern Division championship—a loss would put them into a tie again.

Bob Kabele scored two goals and Buddy Boone and Trent Beatty one each in Vancouver's victory Friday. For Buckaroos, winners of the southern championship, it was Tom McCarthy and Gord Fashaway—his 36th of the season.

In Seattle Bob Sabourin knocked in three goals as Totems overwhelmed Calgary. Don Chipka had a pair—Gerry Leonard and Bob Barlow one each. Fred Hucul answered for Calgary.

Bob Jackson, Ray Cyr, Len Haley, Nick Mickowski and Danny Bellisle scored goals for the Seals, while Bob Solinger and Fleming Mackell had one each for Los Angeles.

First period—1. Seattle, Leonard (Sinclair, Fielder) 3:19; 2. Seattle, Chipka (Leonard, Ward) 4:21. Penalties—McAvoy (C) 3:04, Sabourin (SE) 5:01, Ward (SE) 7:19, Johnson (C) and Kazowski (SE) 7:48, Hay (SE) 12:23, McAvoy (C) 19:30.

Royalites Sparkle In 71-62 Hoop Win

Kelowna Royalites came on strong in the dying stages of the game to score four unanswered baskets to defeat the Vancouver RCAF 71-62 in the first game of the B.C. Senior "B" men's basketball championship played in Kelowna.

Kelowna now takes a nine point lead going into tonight's game, the second game of the two game total point series for the provincial crown.

Alvin Hockstetter proved to be the power of strength for the Royalites collecting 24 points.

RCAF's captain David Kendall and Loren Holyoke were high scorers for the losers each notching 18 points.

The Royalites managed to overcome an early game deficit and hold a slim 38-37 half time lead. Vancouver at times looked like they might run away with the ball game.

Action speeded up in the final 20 minutes both clubs setting a terrific pace and matching basket for basket until the final minute of play when the Royalites took control of the game and ran Vancouver into the floor.

The visiting Vancouver club played without the services of Herb Olafson star centre who did not make the trip.

A win for the Royalites tonight will give the club their second provincial senior "B" men's crown in three years. The Royalites won the title two years ago. After the game, manager Jack Boham of the Royalites said, "We were under pressure at first and didn't loosen up until the last few minutes of the game."

"We were quite impressed with the coast club having only seven players but they ran out of gas in the dying minutes. I am confident that tonight we will knock over the RCAF club again as long as everyone heads-up ball."

Tonight's game, the final game of the series is tied up to be a good one as Vancouver must overcome the nine point deficit and the Royalites will be going all out to protect their edge in the series, and bring the bacon back to Kelowna, game time is 8:30 at the Kelowna senior high school gym.

Hot Attack on Harkness With Boos and Catcalls

CALGARY (CP) — Former defence minister Douglas Harkness was the object of a blistering attack Friday night at a busy political forum where candidates were repeatedly booed and catcalled by boos, catcalls and cheers.

Mr. Harkness, who resigned from the cabinet in a dispute over Canada acquiring nuclear weapons, was set upon by Mr. Joe Law, his Liberal opponent in Calgary North. There were 3,000 persons at the boisterous meeting in Jubilee Auditorium.

"I charge that the Progressive Conservative party has no confidence in Mr. Harkness and they will not support him on anything," said Mr. Law. "I want Mr. Harkness to say if he will support Diefenbaker or Diefenbaker will support him. Also, does he intend to continue with any earlier cabinet plot to remove Mr. Diefenbaker?"

Mr. Harkness said he was "absolutely amazed" at the "mostly personal attack." It was launched in "desperate," he said as shouts of "answer him, answer him!" rang through the auditorium.

"The people who are interrupting seem to be the Liberals who not only condone personal attacks but condone interruptions," said Mr. Harkness.

It would be "strange and unnatural" if he pretended to be anything but a member of the Progressive party and his resignation from the cabinet was not without precedent, he said.

"I could not stay in the cabinet, explaining and defending policies to which I could not agree," said Mr. Harkness.

Mr. Law said either Mr. Harkness or Mr. Diefenbaker is "deceiving the people and I trust."

challenge either to say who it is."

He had to stop speaking when boos and shouts made him inaudible to most of the audience. Eight candidates, four from each of the Calgary North and Calgary South constituencies were on the platform.

SHUT UP, LISTEN

"Shut up and listen—maybe Mr. Law as the boos and cheering persisted."

"I say Mr. Harkness will be impotent in Ottawa unless he can destroy Mr. Diefenbaker," he said. "I say he had no stand on nuclear arms until three weeks after (Liberal leader) Pearson made his statement."

"For 18 years I have always spoken out for what I believe is right, no matter what the consequences," said Mr. Harkness.

Dr. E. W. Hanley, New Democratic Party candidate in Calgary South, also was the object of hecklers. He is a psychiatrist.

Picket Line Meets Thompson With An "Anti-Labor" Theme

REGINA (CP) — A picket line water with organized labor Tuesday when he flew to Vancouver Island from Vancouver in a chartered Pacific Western Airlines aircraft. PWA ticketing clerks and stewardesses are on strike. Mr. Thompson and his party are being accused of crossing the strikers' picket line. He denies the charge.

LEVELS CHANGE

"Thompson joins PWA in strike-breaking," read one of the signs paraded outside the hall. While the pickets marched, a man passed out copies of a statement by Leo Wallace, vice-president of the Saskatchewan Federation of Labor, charging that Mr. Thompson's aircraft was serviced by strike breakers.

Mr. Thompson got into hot water Tuesday when he flew to Vancouver Island from Vancouver in a chartered Pacific Western Airlines aircraft. PWA ticketing clerks and stewardesses are on strike. Mr. Thompson and his party are being accused of crossing the strikers' picket line. He denies the charge.

The Social Credit leader pre-faced his speech with a denial of the strike-breaking allegations. He had seen no picket line at the Vancouver International Airport. If he had seen "taunted" labor by crossing it.

Then he went on to rebuke the picketers, saying they would earn more respect for organized labor if they "were not involved in such things that so obviously attack of politics."

Friday night's meeting followed an afternoon rally at Yorkton, Sask., where Mr. Thompson addressed an estimated 175 persons, and a morning coffee meeting in Melville. At all three sessions he hammered away on his theme that Canadians are becoming fed up with the old-line parties and that only Social Credit has the answer to the nation's problems.

At a late-afternoon press conference, however, he said Social Credit would support the party with the largest number of seats in order to lead stability to another Parliament of minorities.

At the same time he indicated his party might press for a new prime minister as a condition for supporting the Conservatives, stating: "I have absolutely no confidence that Mr. Diefenbaker is able to manage a minority situation."

Addressing Friday night's rally, Mr. Thompson said if the old-line parties had "done their work as they should have," there would not be any third parties in Canada today. "We are here only because of their inabilities and inadequacies."

Dealing with defence, he said Canada cannot work out policies in isolation from its allies.

It was "not good enough" for Canada to hide under the American nuclear umbrella, "then turn around and stick our tongue out at those who hold the umbrella."
